

But as you started to learn...

The positions started feeling good, even natural

The language became second nature

You learned what to expect, what was expected

You started to see the value

But as you started to learn...

The positions started to feel good, even natural

The language became second nature

You learned what to expect, what was expected

You started to see the value

And once you went a few times...

