

Centralized Authority → Distributed Authority

As any complex system develops, it differentiates.

Each part gains more control over its functions in service of the whole.

Consciously diffusing authority in an organization creates more capability and allows the organization to adapt more readily. Distributing authority through clear, explicit expectations supports healthy growth and autonomy.

Concentrations of power represent threats to the long term healthy of these systems.

Centralized Authority → Distributed Authority

As any complex system develops, it differentiates.

Each part gains more control over how it functions in service of the whole.

Consciously diffusing authority in an organization creates more capability and allows the organization to adapt more readily. Distributing authority through clear, explicit expectations supports healthy growth and autonomy.

Concentrations of power represent threats to the long term healthy of these systems.

Avoiding Tensions → Processing Tensions