TACTICAL MEETING

In a Tactical Meeting, Circle Members bring Agenda Items to address Tensions they feel while working in their Roles towards the circle's Purpose. Checklist Items, Metrics, and Projects are reviewed.

Purpose

Each Role and Circle can have a Purpose. A purpose clarifies the identity and intention of the role, even absent any other information. It helps people in the circle or role orient their work. Purposes are often aspirational. A purpose cannot compel specific action. A good purpose leaves room for interpretation. When doing work on behalf of a Role, the role filler should ask, "Does this work serve the purpose of my role or the purpose of the circle?"

Checklist Items

A checklist item is type of metric, stated as a question or statement that has a yes/no answer. Each checklist item in a circle belongs to at least one role and may also be assigned to "all circle members". When answering a checklist item, the role filler can answer "Check", "No Check", or "No data." The rules for adding and removing checklist items are the same as for metrics.
